Behind the Scenes in American Business

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—BUSINESS—Additional evidence was furnished last week that the recent recovery movement in business is not just a "flash-in-the-pan." One sure sign of better times is that people are eating more and better food. Gains up to eight per cent have been reported lately by food wholesalers, while retail sales have risen as much as 12 per cent. Bethlehem Steel resumed dividends on its common stock first since 1937, indicating the management's confidence in the immediate future. Men's clothing manufacturers are getting their wares back to normal. Advertising men say that first half volume followed a rising trend. More favorable retail trade prospects for the fall are expected to help newspaper advertising volume particularly. All in all, the customary "summer lull" seems to be passing without noticeable shrinkage in trade activity.

WASHINGTON—While Congress worked overtime last week to clean up last minute legislation, enthusiasm of business men was aroused by the Department of Commerce's report on national income. This showed that more and salary payments during June made the most pronounced gain since the spring of 1937. The index of employees' compensation advanced to 85 from 83.3 in May. During the first half national income was at the rate of $66,000,000,000 a year compared with last year's total of $64,200,000,000. The gain has meant more to the average American than would appear on the surface since living costs this year have been lower than in 1938, and consumers therefore not only had three per cent more dollars to spend but also got more for their money.

BUILDING HELPS—Encouraging to business also is the continued high level of residential construction. Last week the Federal Housing Administration reported an 80 per cent rise in homes built under the agency's mortgage program during the first half compared with a year ago. At this rate, half a million new homes will spring up in America this year, a ten-year high. The importance of this trend to the nation's purchasing power was explained by John D. Biggers, president of Libbey-Owens-Ford glass company and former administrator of the Federal Unemployment Census. Of every dollar spent this year in small home construction, he said, 41 cents will go to create jobs for workers directly on the site; the other 59 cents will go for material. A great proportion of it to pay wages in the mills, quarries and factories where these materials are produced. Although 375,000 homes, sheltering 1,500,000 persons, were built last year, he said, there remains a great need for new homes, particularly small ones.

MASS-PRODUCTION MERCY—Marked reduction in the number of persons crippled by infantile paralysis in the Chesapeake Bay area has been attributed to quick application of standardized aluminum braces under a system borrowed by the Maryland League for Crippled Children, from the mass-production methods of industry. One hundred braces of various sizes, constructed of the lightweight metal to ease the wearer's burden without sacrificing all-important strength, and fitted with leather and rubber, are stored for immediate use by the league. Upon a telephone call from a doctor anywhere in Maryland or the Baltimore area, specifying the size needed, braces are sped by automobile to the unfortunate victim. In a recent outbreak of the dread disease 25 special braces were shipped at once to sufferers in Charles. S. C. Maryland is claimed to be the only state where such emergency stocks are kept available for shipment in a few hours.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—A one kilowatt radio broadcasting transmitter, said to have the efficiency of a 50 kilowatt equipment, designed primarily for commercial broadcasting and high quality police service. Cheap television receivers through the utilization of ordinary radio sets to pick up television images on one wave band while the sound is coming over another. A new cake shortening said to produce cakes that will not shrink when taken from the oven, and also to give a finer texture. More rubber parts in the assembly of 1940 automobiles than ever before to reduce vibration and noise. A high vitamin yeast for dogs, to stop itching, which is said to result from a diet deficiency. Heat-proof soles for men's shoes, which in addition to rubber cushioning, have layers of cork to provide insulation against the heat of pavements.

HEADLINE IN NEW YORK—Million dollar a day silk trade threatened by State Department's abrogation of commercial treaty with Japan signed in 1911. U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals reverses Federal District Court in Madison, Wisconsin, which last summer convicted five individuals and 12 corporations on charges of conspiring to raise and fix mid-west gasoline prices. Federal Alcohol Administration drops plan to prohibit sale of whiskey in "fifties." Federal Trade Commission estimates country has 41,000,000 radio sets in use, nearly one for every three persons. CIO to unionize building trade workers under its banner; Labor observers view announcement as beginning of "raid" on the A. F. of L.'s wealthiest and most influential unions.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

Italian Rye Grass for Winter Grazing

(From The Progressive Farmer)
By JOHN R. WATLINGTON
Logan County Agent, Kentucky

So long as the lespezezes hold prominence in pasture and meadow seedings, probably no grass holds a greater future for Western Kentucky than Italian rye grass. Farmers have found difficulty in getting adequate stands of grass with Korean lespezeze since it first came into prominence several years ago. At first the loss of grass stands was attributed to many factors, lack of lime and phosphate in the soil, etc. However, as years have passed and many thousands of acres have been treated with lime and phosphate, we still have much difficulty of getting adequate stands of grass with lespezeze that last over an one period.

The lespezezes are fully appreciated by the majority of farmers, however, most farmers realize they have some shortcomings. The worst of these lies in the fact that lespezeze is essentially a "hot" weather plant. About April 1, it usually makes its appearance and is gone by the first frost. It seldom affords much pasture before June. Therefore, the grazing time is limited to approximately 5 months.

After the growth of lespezeze is over, the fields must lie idle and bare for the next 7 months, which is the time of year that the greatest extent of erosion takes place. Not only is a large amount of nitrogen lost but sheet erosion also takes place.

In our grass demonstrations in Logan county we have tried more than a dozen different grasses in an effort to find one that would make a satisfactory growth with heavy stands of lespezeze. Only one has shown a marked degree of success, Italian rye grass has come to the forefront in our county because it supplies the essential qualities that lespezeze lacks. It is a winter cover crop and makes its growth during the months that lespezeze is dead.

Italian rye grass may be seeded either in the spring or fall. However, the largest acreage is usually seeded in the late summer or early fall. It is widely adapted to varying soil types and conditions and can be sowed on lespezeze fields from August 15 to November 1 with assurance. It will soon make a good sod that prevents sheet erosion and loss of nitrogen that has been stored by the preceding crop of lespezeze. It also furnishes winter pasture so essential to livestock farmers and so often lacking. The rye grass will mature seed in July and fall down without interfering with the young lespezeze and about the latter part of August, if moisture conditions are favorable, the seed will germinate and the cycle of the crop is repeated.

For spring seeding, 10 to 12 pounds per acre is enough to produce a thin stand that will adequately reseed itself. However, 20 to 30 pounds per acre should be used for the fall seeding to produce a good stand that will furnish a good cover crop and a large quantity of pasture.

Italian rye grass finds many other useful places on the farm other than with lespezezes. As a cover crop to protect soil from erosion, it is unexcelled and furnishes a cheap and convenient means of covering row crop land such as corn land ordinarily left bare over winter. The rye grass should be seeded in the standing corn between August 15 and September 15. Preparation for the seed is not necessary nor is it necessary to cover the seed. The seed may be dragged in if necessary.

P. J. Berry seeded rye grass in standing corn about September 1. Half the field was dragged after seeding and the remainder was not dragged. No preparation was used before seeding. The corn was snapped from the standing stalks and the stalk field pastured. Cattle and sheep grazed here from late October on, and to date no one is able to see any difference in the stand of rye grass.

Italian rye grass also works with alfalfa. Most if not all alfalfa should have a seeding of grass with it to supplement poor stands and prevent gradual sheet erosion. With alfalfa about 10 pounds of rye grass per acre should be seeded.

A light seeding of Italian rye grass with wheat or other small grains at the same time wheat is sown is also an excellent practice. With a 10 or 12-pound seeding per acre, the grain yield will not be reduced. However, a heavier seeding will reduce the grain yield. The seeding may be done by mixing the seed in the fertilizer or by a seed attachment on the drill.

Italian rye grass makes excellent hay and is very palatable. However, I do not like to think of it as a hay plant, but the supplies pasture when the hay plants are dormant or dead.

When Italian rye grass is sowed with lespezeze for pasture, the field may be grazed throughout the year. This combination furnishes pasture at all seasons—lespezeze during summer and Italian rye grass during late fall, winter, and early spring.

Since Italian rye grass is an annual and reseeds itself, it offers no problem of being a pest that cannot be got rid of. Spring breaking will put an end to Italian rye grass.

Shiloh to Meet Dexter in Baseball Game on Sunday

Hite To Address Cotton Growers

To Speak at Faxon and At New Concord Next Friday

County Agent J. T. Cochran announced today that J. E. Hite, a member of the United States bureau of plant industry, will be in this county on Friday, August 11, to discuss and conduct a short cotton grading school.

He will speak at Faxon high school at 10 o'clock in the morning and will address cotton growers of the New Concord community at the high school building in the afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Hite's discussions will be devoted to delineating the proper methods of harvesting, handling, and ginning cotton. He will be prepared to show growers the various official grades of cotton and to give them a relative idea of the differences in each.

The quality of planting seed, he said in a correspondence here, largely determines the length, strength, fineness, and uniformity of the staple. Price differentials obtain for staple of various lengths.

Hite has been in charge of cotton improvement work in the Mississippi Valley for ten years.

William N. Taylor

William N. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. U. H. Taylor, deceased, was born March 22, 1875, departed this life July 25, 1939. Age 64 years, 4 months, and 3 days.

Comparison of Accomplishments of the Senatorial Candidates For The 3rd District

The People of Calloway County have lots at stake in the Democratic Primary Election this coming Saturday, August 5, in the race for Senator. A man's record and experience qualifies him best for any position. We ask as fellow citizens of Murray and Calloway County to Compare the record of T. O. Turner as compared to the other candidates. Mr. Turner's record of accomplishments should be indelibly impressed upon your minds, and in order to make it easy for you to review it during the years he has been in office we print it below. Please study it, then go to the polls Saturday and vote. We believe that you will agree with us that the future of Calloway County depends upon the reelection of T. O. Turner.

Our race is nearly over. I have worked hard and endeavored to prove that campaigns can be kept on the level. I have visited the poor and the wealthy alike. I have put forth a strenuous effort to see everyone but have failed to do so. I take this method of soliciting the votes of those whom I have failed to meet.

Mr. Miller, I am still your friend and I hope you are mine. You have made a good clerk. You did that which you were paid to do. I have tried to make a good school teacher. My yearly salary has been about one-fifth of that which those who should know say the clerk's office pays. Yet I signed the contracts and no one owes me a vote for performing my duty. We are both school teachers. May I say in a friendly way, I would like to exchange jobs with you for only six years. In attempting to do so, I will play the game fair. I have no money. I can only ask for votes.

I wish to say to all concerned I am running my own race. When you go to the ballot box for my name, I am not a candidate for governor. I do not even know how my father is going to vote in the governor's race. I do not approve of slates and if my name is found on one you may know I did not put it there.

Again I am not trying to pose as a wolf in sheep's clothing. I have voted the Democratic ticket for some fifteen or sixteen years.

Today we have twenty qualified people to fill offices compared with one fifteen years ago. Your children, the boys and girls of today, will be the men and women of tomorrow. Even though you toil to send them to school and they get a good education, qualifications will not increase their span of life. They must be given a chance before they can serve.

I too am asking for a chance. A chance to hold the office I wished to hold six years ago. At that time several of my friends, including my opponent, made the race. I waited. This time I was again asked to wait six more years. Should I? The mornings of youth soon stretch into the evening shadows of old age.

Go to the polls on Saturday. Think of me as some day you would have others think of your boy. Consider the shortness of life, and that two terms means twelve years. I only ask for one six year term. Let your conscience be your guide. I have faith in you.

Thank you,

Bluff to Oppose Cherry in 2 Tilts

Benton Goes Down 8-3 Before Eldridge Sunday; Curry is Winning Toss

The strong Pine Bluff nine will face Cherry Corner in double-header affair at the Bluff diamond Sunday afternoon. Since the Bluff hitting power has come to life, the Eldridge men have been making life miserable for their opposing hurlers.

In the Pine Bluff-Benton game Sunday afternoon, the Bluffmen amassed a total of 12 hits to push across an 8-3 victory. Batteries for the game for the Bluff were Curry and King; for Benton, Paul Jones and Smith. Jones struck out 4 and issued 4 bases on balls; Curry whiffed 7, allowed 9 hits and gave one charity base.

Curry arose to the occasion and proceeded to smother Benton with the bases drunk. Sykes, also a Bluffman, drove out a single and triple and L. Bucy collected 2 singles and a triple.

Benton scored 3 in the opening round, Pine Bluff came back in the second to tally 3. Benton was held to 1 in the 4th while Pine Bluff scored 2 in the 5th and 3 in the 6th.

Steele and Morgan called the game.

Manager Otis Eldridge asks that members of the team report for practice at the Bluff diamond Saturday afternoon.

Famous Name Sets New Record

Taken from the production line recently, the 5,000,000th Frigidaire was posed for this picture with E. G. Biechler, Frigidaire general manager, (left) and C. F. Kettering, vice-president, General Motors Corporation. Well-known for his contributions to industrial research and development of a number of widely used mechanisms, Mr. Kettering has a particular interest in the 5,000,000th Frigidaire. His inspiration and engineering knowledge of refrigeration were in a large measure responsible for the original establishment of the Frigidaire industry. During the years, Mr. Kettering, working closely with Mr. Biechler, has made many contributions which have been of tremendous value in making this product what it is today.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:—Safety Harbor, Fla.

I have been reading some fine letters in the Ledger & Times from former Calloway citizens, who now reside in Texas and other states, which prompts me to write a letter in the near future of some of the advantages of living in Florida. However, at the election is drawing near and I have several friends for the different offices who are opposing each other—except Hall Hood who has no opponent in the county—I wish to say I hope every voter of the old Calloway county on the 3th of August will cast their votes for the man consider best suited for the respective office and roll up a big majority for Keen Johnson for Governor.

The other candidates I make no distinction as all are my old friends.

I hope to write a longer letter soon. Eagle, are you listening?

H. E. (Eugene) Erwin

Confidence...

A funeral director renders a most intimate and personal service. Thus, it is extremely important that you choose a man in whom you can have implicit confidence. When death occurs, stress of emotion often makes clear thinking impossible and then there is no time for investigation or comparison. Therefore decide now what funeral director to call.

Sincerely,

FOR COMMONWEALTH ATTORNEY

I want to thank you for the wholehearted way you have assumed the burden of my campaign and for your loyalty toward me. You know my virtues and know my failing, and as true friends you have magnified those things in my character and nature which are commendable and have mercifully spread the mantle of charity over my weaknesses.

The campaign is nearly over. If I win, and I am confident I will win, it will be a victory for and by Calloway county. The people of Christian, Lyon and Trigg counties are for me strong and I appreciate it, but I want such a majority in Calloway county as will leave no doubt in the mind of any one, that Calloway county is loyal to their own son.

Again thanking you I am

FORD

Candidate For Clerk, Court of Appeals

Robert C. Ford, Jr.

Democratic candidate for nomination to Clerk of the Court of Appeals is making an intensive campaign through the state. Mr. Ford, formerly of Middlesboro and Owenton, is now a resident of Louisville.

BEWARE of Campaign Lies

Information has come to me this morning that rumors are being spread over the county attempting to prejudice me with my friends in numerous ways. There has always been persons who were and are deliberate liars, and there are innocent persons who pass on lies not knowing them to be such.

To keep the record straight let me state to you as a definite fact the following:

I have never at any time represented any person in any court of any kind in Tennessee nor have I testified on behalf of any person in any court who was charged with any crime.

I am not with my knowledge or consent slated or grouped with any candidate in any race, but am making a race I have intended to make for six years, long before either candidate for governor was heard of as a possible candidate. As a home man absolutely unconnected in any way with any one's else race, I am expecting to receive the vote of most of the leaders for each other candidate whose name appears on the ballot and I expect to receive an overwhelming majority of the votes of those who will scatter their votes between the other various candidates. Consequently there will be neighborhoods in which Mr. Brown will get most of the votes and I will get most of them, in that place one might say we were slated; in another neighborhood Mr. Johnson may get most of the votes and I will receive most of the votes and some one might say that would be a slate, but it is not a slate in any sense of the word. Every candidate for the Senate, Representative and Circuit Clerk is my personal friend. In places each of those candidates will receive votes of the same people who also vote for me, but that is not a slate either.

Please do not allow unscrupulous persons to deceive you. I am in no other person's race and no other candidate is in mine. The office I seek has no connection with state offices. It is a six year office and the state offices are for four years and the office I seek does not touch in any manner the activities of any other office or candidate.

Please vote for me because you think I will make you a good commonwealth attorney.

Sincerely,

HALL HOOD

The President was quoted yesterday by Representatives Chapman and Cress, who headed the Kentucky delegation at the White House. Chapman said the President appeared irritated when he was brought to his attention that Brown claimed he was the White House candidate.

"Chapman also said 'Lewis has served notice on Kentucky that he is going to capture the state through his paid employee Brown and that if he is successful he will go on to other state primaries and capture them. He is going to control the 1940 Democratic national convention.'"

"Johnson," Chapman said, will win over Brown because the state of Kentucky will not permit Lewis to run it."

The article pointed out that the Kentucky Democratic delegation of eight in the House is against Brown. The news story also said many members of Congress recalled that Brown during the single term he served in Congress opposed benefits for veterans, the soldier's bonus and parity payments for Kentucky tobacco growers.

Continuing a discussion of the Kentucky situation the article reads in part:

"1934 Brown was defeated by Congressman Chapman in the Sixth Congressional District. When he aspired to a senate seat two years later, he ran third when Senator Logan defeated him by more than 100,000 votes despite implied support from the CIO."

Many baskets of delicious food were carried and spread on the table with 50 pounds of ground beef and served with ice tea and coffee after thanks were offered by the Rev. H. L. Lax.

The following enjoyed the dinner: Mr. and Mrs. F. Lax, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Lax and children, E. H. Jr., Rose Mary, and Mrs. Lax, Mr. and Mrs. Hatway and sons, Dr. Devoed, Edwards and son, Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Chilcutt and son, Robert Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Adams and son, John Cranklin, and Jimmie Lee; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rowlett and son, Ben, Little Joe Martin, all of Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Dora McClure, the Rev. and Mrs. H. Does Harvest Time Mean War?

WARSAW, Aug. 3.—Harvest time in Europe is at hand, the time named in many forecasts concerning Europe's next period of tension.

There is wide fear today that the danger of war may become acute once the crops are in and men released from the fields.

In wheat alone the forecast is that the yield will exceed the five-year average in the European exporting countries, which include Poland.

A widely held belief is that: 1—Early August may see a period of sharp crisis, with Germany possibly imposing a period of nervous strain, on Poland especially, and with the Western European powers countering with pressure of their own.

2—Europe by early September should witness an actual showdown, as far as the possibility of war this year is concerned.

This latter move, holders of the belief continued, will be the final effort to provoke an appeasement policy from the western powers—the climax of the game of war without war.

Hazel Nine Goes Into Tie for Lead

Southsiders Top Fast Gilbertsville Club Sunday by 3-1 Count; To Meet Benton Aug. 6

Behind the baffling hurling of Dunn, Hazel put the clamps on Gilbertsville Sunday to come out of the game with a 3-1 victory and as a result went into a tie for top honors in the Jackson Purchase League.

In the game played at Crossland, Dunn and Wilson formed the battery for Hazel. Each team collected six hits. Dunn struck out 10 would-be hitters and the Gilbertsville loss followed close behind with 9 whiffs to his credit.

Manager Charlton who guides the destiny of the Hazel club, announces that his outfit will meet Benton on the Crossland diamond Sunday afternoon.

The Romans used an eight-day week before the Christian Era. The eighth day was called Market Day.

Packman, Murray; Rudy Barnett, Murray Route 3; Mrs. Homer Farris, Murray Route 1; J. D. Dill, Model, Tenn.; Mrs. Wells Overbey, Murray; Jettie Cathey, Murray; Miss Naomi Maple, Murray; Harold Wilson, Buchanan.

WHO WAS JOHN L. MURRAY?

Are there any old residents in the county who know where John L. Murray, for whom the city of Murray was named, was born? Was he Scotch, or was his ancestry something else?

If such information is known, it would be appreciated both by Mrs. J. D. Rowlett of West Main street or by this office, if either of us might be notified.

E. A. Petroff To Conduct Meeting at Memorial Church

The Rev. E. A. Petroff, Springfield, Ark., will begin a 12-day revival meeting at the Memorial Baptist church here Sunday, August 6. It was announced today by the Rev. Carroll Hubbard, pastor.

Mr. Petroff, a foreign-born minister, was formerly a member of the Catholic church, but became a Baptist soon after coming to America.

He will discuss the following subjects on the dates indicated: "Where are the Nine?", Sunday morning, August 6; "Harvest Time", Sunday night, August 6; "Judas, being a Devil, Made a Disciple", Monday night, August 7; "The Two Natures", Tuesday night, August 7; "The Bible the Inspired Word of God", Wednesday night, August 8; "Religion or Salvation Which?", Thursday night, August 9; "Is God the Father of Everybody?", Friday night, August 10; "Old-Fashioned—Everlasting", Saturday night, August 11.

On Sunday, August 13, his subject will be "God's Plan of Salvation." He will lecture on "Does the Catholic Bible Teach the Plan of Salvation?" on August 15; "Can a Person Sin Away the Day of Grace?" August 16; "Are Jews and Gentiles Saved Alike?" August 17; "Pilate Before Jesus," August 18; "Is Jesus the Christ?" August 19; "The Opportunity Day," August 20; and "Facing the Issue Squarely" on August 21.

Benton Farmer Makes $3,750 in 1 Year on Farm

BENTON, Ky., Aug. 3.—Total sales of $3,750 from a 175-acre farm is the record made during the past year by Joe G. Dunn, of Route 3, according to an announcement made Saturday by J. H. Miller, assistant county agent.

Mr. Dunn's example, Miller said, shows what can be done in Marshall county with livestock and grain on a hill farm. Mr. Dunn has had, on the average, less than six acres in cultivation for the last four years. He has used 10 tons of phosphate and 180 tons of lime in the last three years.

Mr. Dunn's principal income was from his 15 head of horses and mules, 65 head of dairy cattle and 25 hogs. This income was distributed throughout the year and did not come at one time as with an intensified one-crop system, Miller said.

"By this livestock and grain system of farming, Mr. Dunn has been able to have a nice income and at the same time improve his farm and control erosion," Miller concluded.

Monroe Wyatt Is Buried Monday

Farmer of East Side Had Taught School and Sunday School For 20 Years

Monroe Wyatt, 79, who died at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, July 27, after a prolonged illness at his home near Cherry, was buried at the Hicks cemetery Saturday afternoon with funeral services being conducted at the New Hope Methodist church.

Mr. Wyatt, a member of the New Hope Methodist church, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dora Ellen Wyatt, a daughter, Mrs. Velma Pierce, a son, Leonas Wyatt, one sister, Mrs. Jacqueline Clark, and a half-sister, Mrs. Ida Sims, of Hopkinsville. In addition, there are three grandchildren.

Mr. Wyatt, who taught school in Marshall county and in Wesley County, Tenn., for 20 years, has resided on the same farm throughout his life—say for the time he was away on his instructor's duties.

Of a quiet disposition, he was unassuming in mien, but lived a life of friendship to his fellowmen. He taught the adult class of the New Hope Methodist church for 20 years, and members of that class were honorary pallbearers. Active pallbearers were his nephews, John Stom, Gentry Clark, and Roy, Miller, Cleveland, Solon, and Kent Johnston.

WPA WORKERS NOT TO BE RELEASED IN AUGUST IS DECREE

George H. Goodman Had Previously Announced 151 Here to Lose Jobs

ACTION COMES WHEN SENATE OKES RIDER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Works Progress Administration Friday directed state WPA administrators to suspend dismissal of persons on WPA rolls for 18 months.

Harrington issued his order because of the Senate's action Friday night in approving a rider to President Roosevelt's pending bill which would modify the compulsory dismissal proviso of the 1940 Relief Act.

The House yet must act on the pending bill and the Murray amendment.

They said that 650,000 persons who have been on WPA rolls 18 consecutive months or longer would have been laid off by September 1 had it not been for the Senate action.

An earlier story had said that compulsory reduction of relief rolls of the Work Projects Administration in Kentucky to comply with the 1939 Appropriation Act, passed recently by Congress, will be materially felt during August in Calloway county, according to information received this week from George H. Goodman, administrator.

The 1939 act requires that all persons who have received employment on WPA projects for 18 consecutive months, excepting veterans, be released and that their certification be cancelled. In Calloway county 281 persons are employed on WPA rolls. In all 151 persons fall within the meaning of the act and must be released before August 31.

The act provides all persons released may reapply to their local agent for recertification. All of those recertified will then be placed in the "awaiting assignment file," Mr. Goodman said. The act, it is said, presumes that persons severed from relief rolls shall find private employment during the 30 days between the date of layoff and the time they become eligible for application for recertification.

Recertification at the end of 30 days does not mean reemployment, it is pointed out. In the State there are now 10,000 persons already certified who never have had WPA employment and to whom will go, as far as is possible the places made vacant by the "eighteen month" requirement.

Along with the "eighteen month" lists compiled at the Louisville office for dismissal August 1, additional lists of those who have been employed 17 months and 16 months are being prepared for dismissal during September and October, respectively. Under the act the process will be continuous.

Barkley Says He Will Vote for Brown; Speeches Cancelled

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 3.—Prevented by his senatorial duties from appearing here personally, Alben W. Barkley Saturday championed in a radio (WHAS) broadcast Saturday night the candidacy of John Young Brown for Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Mr. Barkley, who is supporting John Young Brown for Governor because he thinks his character, his ability, his public record and his attitude towards questions of public policy entitles him to my support," Barkley said.

"I shall cast my vote for him next Saturday if there are enough railroads, automobiles or airplanes in the United States to get me from Washington to Paducah."

New Hazel Baptist Church Is Completed; Views of New and Old Edifices Are Shown

S. A. Ruskjer to Preach at Hazel

Adventist Minister to Discuss Question of Whether Satan is Bound or Not

"Satan Bound" will be the subject of a lecture to be delivered by Eld. S. A. Ruskjer, Seventh Day Adventist minister, at the Hazel high school auditorium Sunday night at 7:30. It was announced this morning.

In his sermon, the speaker will attempt to bring conclusive answers to the question "Is Satan Bound Now?" Will he ever be bound? For how long a time will he be bound? By whom will he be bound? Will he ever be loosed again? By Whom? Are we now living in the Millennium according to Bible prophecy?

The Murray quartet under the leadership of John Key will have charge of the song-service. Miss Rachel Wheeler, a student nurse at the Mason hospital, will sing a solo, and congregational singing will begin at 7:30, with illustrations of songs thrown upon a screen.

Ruskjer's lecture will be illustrated with handpainted charts.

Showboat to Give Drama At River

Pine Bluff Is Location of Liner On Which Play Will Be Presented Tonight

Ray V. Lambert, general agent for the Majestic Show Boat, a Tennessee River recreation liner which will be anchored offshore at Pine Bluff tonight for a presentation of a 3-act dramatic comedy, "The Push," said in an interview here this week that owners of the showboat have left nothing undone to bring to this vicinity an outstanding performance, clean and up-to-the-standard in every respect.

The program will represent an entire change from the boat's former role, Lambert said, declaring that the show starts promptly at 8:30.

The Bardwell Canning Company will begin operation in a few weeks according to a report in last week's Calloway County News. A canning factory would be a welcome addition to Calloway county farmers and Murray.

Hazel Pastor

That night, the Rev. B. G. Ardeburn, Detroit, began a week's protracted meeting.

In an article two weeks ago, The Ledger & Times carried a story, in which it related the history of the Baptist church in Hazel, and listed the various ministers who have been pastor there.

The church building at the upper left in the picture is the structure from which the congregation has now moved. All future services will be conducted in the new building, a dedicatory service for which will be conducted soon. The old churchgrounds will be converted into additional cemetery space.

Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Neely, leaders in the Hazel church for many years, were instrumental in furnishing material for the articles published and were kind enough to contribute the pictures.

In the picture at the upper right, some of the workmen who collaborated in putting the edifice together are shown in front of the doorway. Mr. Neely is shown at the extreme right in the sailor hat.

The view at the lower left gives a side-section of the church, showing the many windows and a huge shade tree. The front view, with

Dr. Will J. Mayo Dies Friday Morn

Is Last of Famous Clinic Surgeons; Brother Died in May

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 3.—Dr. William James Mayo, world renowned surgeon and last of Rochester's two famous brothers died at 4 a. m. Friday from a serious stomach ailment for which he underwent an operation April 22. He was 78 years old.

Son of a country doctor who trained him to become one of medical history's greatest surgeons, Dr. "Will," as he was known to thousands died in his sleep.

At the bedside were Mrs. Mayo, two daughters and their husbands, Drs. D. C. Balfour, and Dr. William Walters, both members of the Mayo clinic staff and H. J. Harwick, business manager of the clinic.

Stricken shortly after he returned from a winter vacation at Tucson, Ariz., last spring, Dr. Will underwent an extensive operation for a very serious condition at the famed clinic here founded by his father, his late brother, Dr. Charles H. Mayo and himself more than half a century ago.

Death of Dr. Will brought to a close a medical career that paralleled that of his equally famous brother, who died in Chicago May 26 of pneumonia.

The Measure of a Man

Gems of thought are worthy of repeating, worthy of exemplifying, worthy of acquaintance because they are the condensed best of all that is noble in life.

So are qualities which are descriptive of the noblest men. A study of social philosophy perhaps would teach the view that one man in a thousand is independent, one man in ten thousand may be considered unusual, one man in a million great; and that the geniuses of the world, the crown of humanity, come once in many hundred millions.

Just how would you measure a man? Just who composed the following simple treatise on the qualities of manhood does not matter even if it were known, but into the quiet truth of its statements lies a world of wisdom. These are the units to measure the worth of a man, regardless of his birth:

- Not—How did he die? But—How did he live?
- Not—What did he gain? But—What did he give?
- Not—What was his station? But—Had he a heart, and how did he play his God-given part?
- Was he ever ready with a word of good cheer, to bring back a smile, to banish a tear?
- Not—What was his church? nor "What was his creed?" But—Had he befriended those really in need?
- Not—What did the sketch in the newspaper say? But—How many were sorry when he passed away?

The Industrial Survey

The Murray Chamber of Commerce has just completed an industrial survey of the county and city. Copies have been distributed to the commerce membership.

According to T. T. Elkins, secretary of the civic organization, an industrial survey here has been long needed. The project is an answer to that need.

Requiring more than a month to amass, the survey includes data concerning practically every phase of Calloway county's development. Members of the committee preparing the survey were Dr. G. B. Pennebaker, chairman; Mrs. G. B. Scott, Mrs. M. O. Wreather, and Frank Albert Stubblefield.

The survey presented in condensed form shows that practically every facility required for the successful operation of industrial plants can be had in Murray and Calloway county.

In addition to listing the commercial advantages of the community, the survey gives a complete listing of the cultural attractions of the area and records interesting facts concerning the history and the present importance of various local activities including agriculture. A well-prepared map of the Gilbertville dam project is an important part of the brochure.

Congratulations are due to the compilers of this sourcebook of information. We extend them heartily.

Stella Gossip

The Ledger & Times of July 27, 1939, was a "special" illustrated in flaming high-grade pictures of prominent ladies and gentlemen. It cost "the force" extra money. A girl was told that her new dress was fine. She said, "It ought to be, it cost a lot of money!"

Well, sir, at last the State highway department is surfacing No. 121 from Murray. "Stella," Coldwater new road. Had it not been for work of Senator Tom Turner procuring "right-of-way," we would be at the back of some body's field drinking branch water. Don't bite the hand that feeds you!

The last night of Union Grove revival, conducted by Brim and Ray, resulted in 7 additions to the church through faith, confession and baptism. Col. 1:12—On July 25, 1938, this "scribe" was "saved" by grace "through faith."

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. Olan Story, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Cochran and Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Red Ray, and Mrs. Edna Ray, all of Williams Chapel, were guests of H. M. Phillips, Nashville, and Johnny Myers, Lynn Grove, Yes, and Mr. and Mrs. Connie Mills and Richard attended several times. Williams Chapel is located on Lynn Grove-Tri-City road, highway No. 94. The commodious auditorium will seat 600 or more people.

Among the number of old friends that I saw were Will Swann and Mrs. Elar Stokes. Elar and Dellar Swift, twins, were born within 300 yards of my present home 70 years ago. They attended Coldwater school in the days of their youth. So did I and sister Lillie.

I reckon I ought to bring my few remarks to a close because the candidates are demanding their fare-you-well plea for nomination. How in the world can the old folks tell? Tell what? I've done filled out my vote on an educational ballot. You should see it! Make a mud turtle dance a hornpipe to the tune of "Trying to beat the record of the Robert E. Lee."

Ladies and gentlemen, vote early on the seventh day of the week, Aug. 5, 1939. For whom? I say? The candidates that get nominated must not bray and strut around and around like a turkey gobbler or "Bog" like an old, strutting goose. And the humiliated, defeated candidate, be not discouraged, though your jobs are "few." Remember that the mighty oak was once a nut—like you. —Eagle

Democrats Are Urged to Vote For Samuels For Secretary of State

Democrats were urged to "compare the voluntary and money-saving services to the people" given by the candidates seeking the Democratic nomination as Secretary of State, in a recent speech made by John Samuels in his home-town of Mt. Sterling.

Samuels, who is seeking this post, is a former newspaperman and now chamber of commerce secretary. He told his listeners, "I am the only person in this race, who is willing to get up and announce publicly what I have done for the people of Kentucky."

The reason is that I am the only person in this race who has ever done anything for the people of Kentucky.

"I challenge any or all of my opponents combined to furnish proof that they have ever given the public a single, voluntary and money-saving service."

"The record reads," the speaker continued, "that I started and carried on a telephone syndicate operating in Kentucky. We got the rate order withdrawn; thus saving farmers and businessmen, and householders of Kentucky at least $2,000,000 annually."

"I neither expected nor received any pay whatsoever for this important service to my own people. I gladly do the same thing again."

Samuels, age 37, is a University of Kentucky graduate. He has never before sought an elective office.

Samuels is a personal friend of R. M. Pollard, owner of the Murray Laundry, who is working in his behalf, asking his friends to vote for him. Mr. Pollard said that he would appreciate the vote of all, and that he personally endorses Samuels for the position of secretary of state.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday, August 6, 1939

The pastor will preach at the morning worship on "Supreme Moments," from the scene of the Transfiguration, and following this service, we invite all of God's people to share with us in the Holy Communion. We allow each communicant to judge of his own fitness to thus observe the Lord's Supper.

At the evening worship hour, 7:45 o'clock, the pastor will preach on "Fleeing from God," using Jonah as an example of the impossibility of any man escaping from his duty. No need to say, which to prefer, your duty but you can not escape it.

On Monday night, August 7, the stewards are called to meet, that we may prepare for the third quarterly conference, to be held at the church on Monday night, August 16. Only a few more days in which to prepare, so the members of the church to do his duty. Our record for nearly three years has been a wonderful record and we MUST maintain it.

Every Sunday morning at 9:30 the Sunday-school keeps "open house" for those of all ages and conditions of life, and you will find a cordial welcome from our workers. You owe it to yourself and to your household to "lead" your own children to the House of God.

Our young people's meetings are well attended and your children are missing something worthwhile if they are not at these meetings. All visitors and strangers in Murray are assured of a warm welcome at our services and an attempt to maintain a brotherly attitude both in our messages and in our fellowship. Come and be with us.

Hamilton Wins in Net Tourney

Murray Star is Too Much for Opponents in Paducah Meet

A wisp of a girl named Fleeta Katterjohn and a tall, angular youth from Murray, J. D. Hamilton, Jr., Saturday afternoon became junior tennis champions of Paducah with convincing triumphs in the finals of The Sun-Democrat's tournament at Barkley Park.

Miss Katterjohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Katterjohn of 245 Sycamore Drive, was a surprise conqueror of Evelyn Saffor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Saffor, 1339 South Ninth street.

The 16-year-old girls who will be a junior at Tilghman high school next September was a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Miss Saffor, 14, who will be a freshman in high school at St. Mary's when the summer vacation is over.

Hamilton, a heavy favorite from the time he entered the tournament conducted by the WPA Recreation Department, walloped young Frankie Nagel, son of Paducah's "Old Maestro" of the courts, F. L. Nagel and Mrs. Nagel, 8-1, 6-1.

Hamilton's triumph in the boys' singles was just a case of too much experience and class. The Murray youth displayed speed and pace which the less experienced Paducahan could not match. J. D. hampered away at the corners, dropped short shots just over the net and then sent sizzling drives past the bewildered Frankie who never quit trying but was just up against a racquet slinger who had too much for him.

In Pike county, farmers estimate that every purchased bull brought in has been worth $800 per year to the community.

TO THE VOTERS OF

DISTRICT

In the last days you are to select and settle upon your nominees for the Senate and Representatives in the Legislature.

I am a candidate subject to your approval or disapproval. You place a burden upon your nominee to raise revenues from the tax payer to meet or reject the many promises of the candidates for Governor, and control the affairs of state.

We must be reasonable with the tax payer, also must support the institutions of the state, and help the old, the crippled, the blind and tubercular.

I have not bothered you trying to persuade you to vote for me. Many come to me and I always respond in trying to help you with my time and experience. It has cost me more than I have gotten out of it. I am worse off financially and physically than when I begun, I have less business now and less to lose. I would like to go a little further to see the state debt fully paid and the county's debt taken over by the state which can be done by your vote and save the financial condition of the counties.

My Friends, you have been exceedingly kind and courteous to me during this campaign, and since this is my last opportunity of saying a word to you before you cast your votes in Saturday's primary, I want to tell you how grateful I am for the support which you are giving me.

Remember that all kind words spoken for me and the votes which you cast for me will be appreciated by me beyond words of expression.

When you send me to Frankfort as your Representative, I shall at all times hold the office as a sacred trust, and will not violate one promise which I have made to you.

I promise to give you honest and efficient service and, with the help of God, to so conduct myself that you will never have cause to regret voting for me.

Again thanking you, I am
Respectfully yours,

KEEN JOHNSON

FOR GOVERNOR

For Democracy, Americanism, Progress, Lower Taxes And Against C. I. O. and Radicalism!

Keen Johnson HAS NOT made "Wild Promises" in Order to Be Elected ---
He Will Support President Roosevelt in His Program. Here Are 20 Things

KEEN JOHNSON WILL DO FOR YOU—

—Please Read Them Carefully—

Radicals and agitators must not be enthroned to power in Frankfort.

I approve complete modernization of the State prisons, hospitals and welfare institutions.

I approve the program of National Recovery and Social Security developed by the National Administration.

I favor a delegation to the Democratic National Convention in 1940, instructed to vote as a unit for Senator Albert W. Barkley for President.

I think the Legislature, taxing authorities, political organizations, and officials generally ought never to meddle uninvited in local affairs.

I favor legislation to increase the maximum old-age assistance payments to $30 a month.

I favor abolishing the present law which requires a lien on the property of those receiving old-age pensions.

I favor an amendment that will permit public assistance for the needy blind and dependent children of needy families.

I pledge my opposition to any and all efforts to increase taxes on farm lands.

The specific problems of our farm people shall be the constant and unifying objectives of my administration.

We shall provide well-trained, efficient, technical assistance to aid rural electrification cooperatives.

A fair apportionment of state road funds shall be made for Farm-to-Market roads.

The Department of Agriculture belongs to the farmer. It must be recognized and revitalized.

I favor an appropriation for research as proposed by the Farm Bureau Federation to find new uses for tobacco.

I oppose any increase in real estate tax and enactment of a general retail sales tax.

I pledge untiring effort to a progressive educational policy.

The road building program shall be kept free of political manipulation and control.

I favor the protection of Labor in all its rights. I favor the protection of industry in all its rights.

I am in accord with the farm program seeking sustained parity prices for farm commodities.

As Governor I will be actuated by a desire to do my duty . . . to do that which will advance the welfare of all the people.

Farmers! Tax-Payers! Laboringmen! Businessmen! Teachers! Veterans! Professional Men and Women! Housewives!—and Citizens Throughout the County—"A VOTE FOR "KEEN JOHNSON" Is a Vote for "LOWER TAXES," AMERICANISM, The LABORING MEN and WOMEN, and the WELFARE of ALL and a Vote AGAINST THE CIO AND RADICALISM!

Will the Farmers Vote to Shackle Themselves

No! The Great Majority Will Vote For Keen Johnson

In California there is now a movement by C.I.O. to create a union of farm workers. Such has already been done in the states of Washington and Oregon. Harry Bridges, the C.I.O. organizer of the Pacific Coast section, has initiated these unions among farm workers. This is the same Harry Bridges who is a communist and an alien and whose deportation the American Legion has demanded of the Federal immigration authorities. In Washington and Oregon farmers were told they could not haul their hay to market unless they joined the C.I.O.

Last year the C.I.O., in organizing a branch of the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, in southeast Missouri, staged a sitdown strike on the principal highways of that section. Senator M. M. Logan, in referring to the activities of the C.I.O. among farmers, said on the floor of the United States Senate:

"The real issue is not the wage or working condition of the laborer. The real issue is one of gaining control of the food supplies at their source, even though the farmers' crops are destroyed."

John Y. Brown, who now draws $10,000.00 each year as lobbyist and general counsel of the C.I.O. in Kentucky and who is anticipating large financial support from this organization in this race for Governor, will not hesitate, if elected Governor of the Commonwealth, to yield to every demand of John L. Lewis. If the C.I.O. makes him Governor, he will turn Kentucky over to the C.I.O.

Does any one presume for one moment, if John Y. Brown rules from Frankfort, that the state police, or even the militia of the Commonwealth, will interfere with any activity of the C.I.O. in this state?

Can it be imagined that John Y. Brown, if he is Governor, will do aught but assist in enacting into law in Kentucky every radical measure demanded of him by John L. Lewis?

Brown's campaign manager, Fredrick A. Wallis, speaking at Murray last summer, said: "The support of the C.I.O. should be enough to drive every patriotic citizen to vote against the candidate whom they support."

Keen Johnson promises the farmers, first, the American plan that they have grown up under. He will not brook C.I.O. interference with a system that cannot conform to set hours of work. In short, he is against radicalism in every form.

He proposes to reorganize the State Department of Agriculture; establish in connection therewith a Division of Markets; study and foster new uses of tobacco; promote diversified farming; give aid to rural roads and rural schools; and cooperate closely with the State Farm Bureau and the extension work of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

GILBERTSVILLE DAM --- THE TVA MASTERPIECE

By EDWARD FREEMAN

The Tennessee Valley Authority is building its $112,000,000 dam at Gilbertsville—the most costly and most valuable dam in America, forming the largest artificial lake in the world, and authorized in the face of the bitterest and most formidable opposition in Congress.

The huge project is designed for flood control, navigation, power, and national defense.

Requiring a peak employment of about 8,000 workers, the dam will be finished in from six to eight years, TVA engineers estimate.

The Gilbertsville Dam will create the largest reservoir in the world—184 miles of navigable channel suitable for boats of 9-foot draft," says John B. Blandford, Jr., general manager of the TVA. "This is more than three times the length of the Panama Canal."

The site is on the Tennessee River about 22 miles upstream from the confluence of the Tennessee River with the Ohio River at Paducah, Ky., and about 184 miles below Pickwick Landing Dam, now completed.

Already when one goes to Gilbertsville he is impressed with the enormity of the change which has taken place in that normally quiet and detached little village in recent months.

With a companion, I drove over on a recent evening. There's no danger in getting lost on a trip there—real estate men and promoters have seen to that. All along the highway for miles before you're even in the dam region, are colorful and attractive signboards pointing the way to Gilbertsville. If you should be so assinine as to ask "some one the way to get to the dam, he looks at you as if you were crazy.

The road, a new gravelled highway leading off from U. S. Highway 68 which is scheduled soon to be concreted, was almost as well-traveled as a large city boulevard. There hasn't been a good rain in several weeks, and the dust was stifling. But that didn't seem to bother the cars.

We asked a man who had lived in that vicinity what he thought about the change in traffic, and he said he'd never seen anything to compare to it. "Used to if we saw a car coming we'd run and hide for fear it might be a revenue man," he said. "Now I never seen anything like it. Worens't it in Dee-front."

We just about agreed with him. There were more out-of-state cars

The Future Speaks Through Artists' Eyes!

Above is an artist's drawing of the Gilbertsville project as it will look when completed. The Illinois Central Railroad bridge shown in the lower foreground will be transferred and the rails will run across the top of the dam, as also will a Federal highway.

mostly Alabama and Mississippi models—than there were bearing Kentucky licenses.

Whereas a few months ago the self-respecting people of Gilbertsville would have been plagued no end at the operation of a roadhouse in their traditional church-loving community, they've become resigned to the coming of dozens of them now. If there's one within a radius of 10 miles of the camp area, there's fifty of them. We counted five in less than 300 yards. None of the roadhouses, however, are located on TVA property.

One lady said she guessed they were all right, however, because they weren't like she had thought they'd be. They don't get very rowdy, she said, and the people have to have somewhere to go. "I guess we're all just getting accustomed to them like we had to do to the idea of the dam. Most of us were in favor of it from the beginning, though."

One of them, about 10 miles out from the dam—close however to the new super-access highway—that's being constructed to the dam, about three miles out of Benton on U. S. 68—has them all beaten for originality of design. It's called the Spillway Inn, and it's front is representative of the spillway which will be at the dam when completed. It's in natural color, and catches the eye instantly.

Practically all have regular bookings of orchestras, but some stick to the nicolodeon. Most have intriguing titles, like the Lone Star Inn, The Silver Dollar, The Calvert City Nite Club, Casino Gardens, The Grand Pavilion, The "Y," The Spillway, etc.

Speaking of the spillway—that part of the dam is designed when completed to pass safely 960,000 cubic feet of water per second and will extend 1,210 feet long from lock to powerhouse. Spillway control will be by means of gates of the fixed-roller type, engineers said.

In the preparation of the foundation of the dam, 3,500,000 cubic yards of earth will be excavated. About 1,250,000 cubic yards of concrete will go into the lock, spillway, and powerhouse structure, and 2,500,000 cubic yards of earth will be used in the earth embankments. These earth dikes will be protected from wave action by 250,000 cubic yards of riprap or stone layer along the sides, construction officials declared.

The maximum height of the earth embankment is planned to be 65 feet, while that of the concrete spillway structure, from bedrock to the top of the gate operating platform, will be about 150 feet. The lock will have a chamber 600 feet long and 110 feet wide, and will be designed for a maximum lift of 68 feet.

In addition to the spillway, the dam will consist of a concrete lock and powerhouse section across the present river channel. The entire structure will be 8,000 feet long, about 1.4 miles. Earth embankments will cross the flood plain on both sides of the stream to join these concrete structures to high ground.

Land acquisition offices for the Gilbertsville reservoir are located in Murray and have been operating since winter before last. At that time, Congress had appropriated only $2,500,000 for all purposes connected with the dam, and the personnel then did not consist of more than 20 persons, including stenographers and secretaries. With the appropriation, however, of $12,500,000 for construction work this year beginning July 1, the personnel has increased to nearly 40, and land-buying in the reservoir is going on extensively and rapidly. All appraisers, chiefs-of-party, and officials are veterans of other TVA reservoirs including Norris, Pickwick, and Muscle Shoals, and know their jobs to a T.

Appraisers estimate the value of land to be purchased, usually with satisfactory consideration to property-owner claims and concessions to timber of other valuable features, and recommend prices to be paid for the property.

"Although there is some discontent among residents of the valley who will be forced to move, it is no wise general opposition," comes principally from residents of small villages such as Birmingham, Pine Bluff, and Big Sandy, Tenn., which will be inundated by dam flood waters, and chief among those who protest—in a resigned way, to be sure—are storekeepers and businessmen who will lose both their business and location.

The TVA pays well enough for the land it buys, a hardware dealer in Birmingham said. "But that is physical property that can be evaluated. It don't pay for abstract things like loss of customs. It won't buy my store stock either. Of course, I didn't expect that, but it seems a little unfair."

He said much of his trade was done on credit, and he'd never pressed a customer. He always knew he'd get his money—this year or come other year. Now it was different. His customers, many of whom still owed him money, were moving away. He could not replenish his stock, because much of it he might not be able to sell. It was a problem.

"But I mean to stick with it till they force me out," he said with a grin.

A farmer, however, in the same neighborhood, declared he was well-satisfied with the price he'd got for his land.

"You see," he said, "I can still stay on the land here for a year or two" (they have until 1943 to move out) "and in the meantime I can look out for a good place. Of course, I hate to give up my neighbors, and I had some of the best corn land in the country, but none. However, my house was getting old, and I'm not worried about making a living somewhere else. My wife wants to move close to some good small town where our children will be closer to school."

That's the general opinion among the farmers in the basin. There's no disputing the fact that some of the best crop land of the counties involved will be under water when the dam is complete. It all appear to think they'll make it all right. They do hate to move away from landmarks they've learned to cherish, and, too, many of their relatives are buried in cemeteries that will be 30 or more feet under water.

That fact is made supportable though by the TVA's assurance it will move all graves to higher land, and quite a considerable corps of laborers are even now engaged in that task.

In the beginning, probably 300 persons were employed at the dam, but the number now has increased to approximately 1,200. Peak employment on the dam will reach about 2,400 workers, but an additional force of 4,000 men or more will be employed in reservoir clearing and relocation. The 180-mile reservoir area will naturally necessitate the use of a large number of employees.

To be more explicit, the actual number of persons who will gain some sort of employment as a result of the dam cannot be estimated accurately. Hundreds are working for private enterprises that have risen and flourished because of the Gilbertsville project. Night clubs and restaurants employ many. Lumber companies have sprung up like grasshoppers. Real estate agencies have put on more help. County and State road-building, independent of the TVA, have required more help. Carpenters work is at a premium. Contractors do a landoffice business. The population of the normally 400-person-and-three-horse village has increased to about 3,000.

Most active unit of the TVA personnel now is the division laying out and building the worker's new super-access highway, a new modern brick TVA schoolhouse, playgrounds, and extensive facilities for a permanent city being erected. The TVA camp space composes about 50-75 acres, and new buildings are going up like smoke.

Modern fire equipment with two fire trucks is already in use, and a well surveyed landing field has been fixed up for planes. Hangar is now under construction.

On the opposite side of the river from Gilbertsville just as much action is noticeable, if not more so. Workmen already have relocated tracks of the Illinois Central Railroad, and the rails will run across the middle of the dam when it is completed. A new access highway, with a 400-foot right-of-way is under construction, and will be ready for travel within three weeks. At that time, the regular traffic going to the dam will be turned to the new road while the old road is concreted.

By no means all of the applicants for jobs even in the immediate Gilbertsville area have received posts. The percentage of these is normal—almost to the extreme. Several towns, including Benton and Eddyville, have sent petitions to their Congressmen asking more favoritism be shown local workers. No person is given work either who is not passing a 14 examination in either skilled or unskilled labor classifications. The unskilled laborer makes from 47 to 60 cents an hour, and the skilled worker draws as high as $1.50 per hour.

The majority of skilled workers come from other reservoirs where their ability has been tested, but some few have been chosen among local workers.

You'll find very few among those who took the examination, however, who are not confident they'll get a job later on. "Just wait! I'll get my job on the dam," they'll say.

People have come in seeking jobs from practically every state, and they continue to hang around picking up work independently. Many of them have no place especially to go anyway, and they'd just as soon be in Gilbertsville without work as elsewhere. The color line doesn't seem to matter, insofar as the transients are concerned. There're negroes, Mexicans, many other races.

The sight of negroes in Gilbertsville is anomalous in the extreme because before the coming of the dam, a negro was afraid even to stick his foot on ground anywhere close to Gilbertsville, or Calvert City, a neighboring village growing wealthy under the reflected influence of the dam work.

We saw a couple of youthful bucks sitting urbanely at the roadside. They exuded all the confidence in the world. "We ain't got no work yet," they, "but we will. You just watch us!" They'd come all the way from Arkansas.

It might be well to consider a little of the dam's history. The idea of a dam in the Lower Tennessee Valley originated about 40 years ago with an Army survey. Later, before the creation of the TVA as a "New Deal" move, W. G. Waldo, head of Southern Utilities and Industries, Inc., obtained a preliminary permit from the Federal Power Commission to build a huge power dam at Aurora, about 12 miles upstream from Gilbertsville. When the TVA began its program of "unified control" of the Tennessee Valley, the Federal Power Commission awarded a settlement to Mr. Waldo for his property and rights in the matter and he was thereby removed from the picture.

The creation of the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933 upon President Roosevelt's recommendation completely altered the picture for the private dam in the lower valley. On August 16, 1933, the TVA formally opposed Waldo's application for a permanent license to build the dam, and the temporary license expired August 17, 1933. The federal government settled with Waldo by paying several hundred thousand dollars to the Waldo interests for his private explorations, drillings, surveys, and some property he had acquired.

In 1935, Congress authorized the TVA to build dams for the 9-foot channel from Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville, Tenn., necessitating a dam in the lower valley. In March, 1936, after more than two years of explorations, the TVA submitted a comprehensive report to Congress recommending Gilbertsville as the site for its proposed dam, rejecting as unsuitable the Aurora site. Congress that year appropriated a small sum for investigations and explorations. In 1937, an additional sum was appropriated for continued investigations. In 1938, Congress appropriated $2,613,000 for continued explorations and preliminary construction.

The 1939 session of Congress this year climaxed a bitter fight by appropriating the $12,503,000 for construction. The sum was obtained after the House had previously rejected the proposal but it receded from its position at the insistence of the Senate under Senator Alben W. Barkley's leadership.

The Lower Tennessee Valley Association, composed of representatives in West Kentucky, Southern Illinois, and West Tennessee, was early organized to urge the construction of a dam in the lower valley. Each year this non-partisan group urged upon Congress the necessity of an appropriation for starting construction of this dam.

Not everybody in Congress favored the dam. Some Congressmen described it as a colossal mistake, a waste of money, etc., arguing it would harm the coal industry, private business, utilities, farming, navigation, and would have few benefits.

But by and large, the overwhelming majority of the farmers, merchants, businessmen, and legislators in the area are and have been thoroughly in favor of the big dam. "I regard the TVA as the greatest development of ancient or modern times, and Gilbertsville is the key-stone of this entire development," Congressman J. E. Rankin of Mississippi wrote the Lower Tennessee Valley Association recently. "Every county in my district and every town in my district will be getting TVA power within the next few months—and at TVA rates. Let's do the same thing for Kentucky."

Officers of the LTVA are Dr. J. H. Richmond, president of Murray State College, Murray, Ky., chairman of the board; Luther Draffen, Calvert City, Ky., president; J. T. Lindsey, Camden, Tenn., vice-president; and L. J. Horlin, Murray, Ky., secretary-treasurer. President Draffen summed it all up recently in a wire from Washington whence he had gone to "see about the dam": "I consider it as the most important piece of legislation for this area that has passed in the last 50 years."

Dr. Richmond has described it as "meaning a new era of economic and sociological development for the Lower Tennessee Valley."

From the beginning a minority opposed the construction of the project on general principles alone; and others opposed it, perhaps with a degree of justice, because the dam would destroy landmarks which to them were precious.

"That last was the only unfortunate possibility which the dam could be responsible for. But it was too big a project, its construction meant too much to the area which it served, it was too powerfully a directing factor in the future destiny of Kentucky and ultimately the whole of the Tennessee Valley not to be built."

As has in some measure come true, the visionary saw factories and industries springing up in the TVA area, and the practical man—viewing the countryside with a speculative eye—found cities in the region most desirable locations. He saw good roads; the best of educational facilities; competent hospital, staffs and physicians to take care of his ill; lovely residential sections; well-kept access roads—and already thriving cities which would grow and not be-

for SECRETARY OF STATE

(1) Samuels is 37; a university graduate; experienced in secretarialship work with chambers of commerce; has never sought an elective office; is not a professional, perennial politician.

(2) He started and organized and carried through state-wide opposition in 1936 to certain telephone rate privileges granted by the Public Service Commission to a telephone syndicate in Kentucky. The rate was withdrawn, thus saving taxpayers at least $2,500,000 annually.

This important service was given of his own accord and without any compensation whatsoever. Check this unselfish public-service record against the purely clerical and political records of his opponents.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Mr. Samuels is a personal friend of mine, and I heartily endorse him, and ask that you vote for him as a personal favor to me, as it will be greatly appreciated.

R. M. POLLARD, Owner of the Murray Laundry

WILLIAM H. MAY is a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture, and you will find his name appearing third place on the ballot.

Mr. May has been head of the collection and credit department of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville for the past six years, and it has been my very great pleasure to have been closely associated with him in a business way, and I have found him to be one of the most accommodating men that I have ever known. I have never in all the six years that he has been with the bank, known him to fail to accommodate one of his borrowers in every way possible, and was always the last man to recommend foreclosure on a farmer's loan.

I would be very glad if you would cast your vote next Saturday, August 5, for this good man and in doing so, I assure you that I will consider it a personal favor to me as well as all farmer members of the Calloway County National Farm Loan Association, and further assure you that Mr. May will never give you cause to regret having voted for him.

I am,
Yours to Serve,
E. C. JONES.

Seniors Apply for Degrees From Murray on August 18

About 60 Expected To Complete Work

Approximately 60 seniors will receive degrees from Murray State at the conclusion of the summer term, August 18, college officials estimated today. Thirty-three had applied July 26 for degrees to be granted in August. Mrs. Cleo Gillis Hester, registrar, reported this week.

Sixty-nine students received degrees in June, at which time the entire class of 1939 participated in the commencement program. In accordance with a vote of the seniors, there will be no formal exercises in August this year. Those who have applied for degrees:

Bachelor of Arts: Stella Dunn, Paris, Tenn.; Carlos Clifton Erwin, Murray; Prudence Mathis, Mayfield; Virginia Loyd Parham, Dresden, Tenn.; John Quentermoss, Salem.

Bachelor of Science: Key Bagwell, Heath; Mary Ella Millikin Bagwell, Heath; Edwin Eugene Bland, Cairo, Ill.; Orvas Leonard Burken, Alamo; Cordie Lee Caldwell, Lynn Grove; Christine Calhoun, Eddyville; Sylvia Jane Calhoun, Eddyville; Dola Lee Camp, Clinton; Vergil Vertran, Gipson, Heath; Virginia Howell Hill, Paducah; Lurline Littlejohn, Paris, Tenn.; Josephine Magruder, Kevil; Dorothy Lou Norris, Guthrie; Bernice Thomas Owen, Wickliffe; Mary Elizabeth Quirey, Clay; Julia Cornelia Shaw, Clinton; M. O. Thomas, Murray; Dorothy Shemwell Waggoner, Wheatcroft; Hawthorne Wallis, Barlow; Harry U. Whyne, Jr., Columbus.

Benny Gets a Valet—Screen, a New Comic!

And what a valet! None other than that gravel-throated "Rochester," who makes his first screen appearance with his radio boss in Paramount's gag-studded comedy with music, "Man About Town," which opens locally at the Varsity Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. Co-starred with Jack Benny in the picture are Dorothy Lamour and Edward Arnold.

Protomus Palaver

Hurray for the Ledger & Times! Always an interesting paper, it was even better than usual last week. I'm sure we all liked the pictures of the wreck victims. Beech Grove revival closed Saturday night with four professions, two additions and a genuine revival in the community. Good crowds attended each service.

Joe Nelson Nance, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Nance, who makes his first screen appearance with his radio boss in Paramount's gag-studded comedy with music, "Man About Town," which opens locally at the Varsity Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. Co-starred with Jack Benny in the picture are Dorothy Lamour and Edward Arnold.

Lightning burned a crib of corn and killed a hog last week for Hester. Some men who had taken refuge in a barn nearby, were severely shocked.

Mrs. M. L. Henley of the Gibbs Store vicinity, is spending the week with Mrs. Bell Story and of the Story's Chapel community and attending the revival. If we only had more people who were as devoted to their church as Sister Henley and Sister Story, there would not be so many empty pews in our churches.

Mrs. Luck Bupp of Elkton, Ky., has been called here because of the illness of her father, Mr. Frank Rogers. Mr. Rogers, however, is reported to be some better at present.

Fire destroyed a stock barn on the Mrs. Eda Spann farm, near Beech Grove, last week. James West occupied the farm. We understand that all his feed was lost.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wheeler, and Mr. and Mrs. Willie McClure of Lynnville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence West last Sunday.

Rosell Story of Murray is visiting Lockie Rogers and attending the revival at Story's Chapel this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall McNelly of St. Louis, were week-end visitors of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Humphreys.

The Bell City-Boydsville road is being gravelled this week. I wonder if the folks down there realize how lucky they are. First they get a dredge ditch, then a levee across Terrapin bottom, an REA power line, and now gravel, and all within the past 12 months. If we get a new bridge we must cry for it for months.

Couple Is Arrested After Triangular Quarrel, Cutting

A woman and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bizzell, of near Shiloh, were under $100 bond each here Monday after Sheriff's officers had served a warrant against them charging malicious cutting.

The warrant was sworn to by Mrs. Edison Harris, who claimed that after a quarrel at a baseball game in Joe Burken's field at Shiloh Sunday the Bizzells slashed her over the eye with a knife.

Mrs. Harris, although she has been summoned as a witness, was not placed under arrest.

G'VILLE DAM

come languorous with time. Then the argonismist with eyes for betterment of the soil and for farm practices which would enrich the farmer's potential source of income saw the value which would come to the farmer because of the dam: It meant cheap electricity for dairying, for livestock raising, and for lessening the burden of the long overhauled farmer and his wife.

And after all there would be so comparatively little land destroyed with what would remain. The benefit which would be derived by the good lands left would come through sacrifice perhaps of those homes, but it would more than compensate for any monetary loss.

Many of those who have moved were glad to do so, and they have the sympathy and best wishes of residents who were more fortunate. All find themselves welcomed in communal neighborhoods essentially similar to ones from which they came.

The population both urban and rural within or bordering on the proposed reservoir—not counting those who have come in since the dam started—is estimated at 15,000, living in 15 counties in Kentucky and Tennessee. (These figures include only those persons who will have to move because of flood waters).

Following are the larger villages which will be affected by the impounded waters. Population figures are according to the 1930 census: Big Sandy, Tenn. 618; Eva, Tenn. 406; Johnsonville, Tenn. 354; Springville, Tenn. 150; Danville, Tenn. 122; Perryville, Tenn. 256; Britt's Landing, Tenn. 20; Daniel's Landing, Tenn. 27; Fort Henry, Tenn. 50; Cletyon Landing, Tenn. 20; Birmingham, Ky. 314; and Grand Rivers, Ky. 506.

The lake itself to be formed by the dam will be a veritable "Sportsman's Paradise" in the opinion of TVA officials. Although Norris lake has been completed only recently, it is already known for its recreational facilities.

Fishing, hunting, swimming, boating, and all forms of recreational activities will be made possible in the Gilbertsville area, and Murray, by reason of its opportune location, may become a rendezvous for sports-lovers the world over.

TVA officials at Knoxville told Murray delegates that the Gilbertsville reservoir was certain to eclipse the famed Reelfoot lake region for its fishing possibilities. Boats of all kinds—sail boats, yachts, rowboats, canoes, barges, steamboats—will keep the lake alive with action.

The Gilbertsville dam is one of the biggest and costliest dams ever conceived by man.

On the basis of estimated costs,

several huge dams are ranked as follows:

1. Grand Coulee Dam $118,000,000
2. Gilbertsville Dam $112,000,000
3. Dnieprostroy, Russia $85,000,000
4. Bonneville Dam $74,144,000
5. Boulder Dam $70,000,000

W. L. Sturdevant, director of information of the TVA, gives the following report regarding these projects:

"The ultimate cost of the Gilbertsville project is $112,000,000. A report by the Bureau of Reclamation, dated February, 1938, entitled 'Dam and Control Works' gives estimated costs of Boulder and Grand Coulee dams as being $70,000,000 and $118,000,000, respectively.

"The release dated February 9, 1938, of the Federal Power Commission announces the initial cost of the Bonneville dam as being $83,188,800 and the ultimate cost is estimated at $74,144,000.

"In its July 28, 1938, issue, the Electrical World magazine quotes Col. Hugh L. Cooper, consulting engineer for the Soviet Government on the Dnieprostroy project, as saying that the estimated cost of that project would be $65,000,000."

What is to result from the Gilbertsville dam in this area is not problematical; it is a conceived fact. To spend $112,000,000 on any project in any region is to boost agencies of trade, society, government activity. Prosperity is an established and conceded epilogue.

Unfolding before the eyes of the people in Western Kentucky and West Tennessee is industrial activity of which they had previously little dreamed. As the late Warren S. Swan, former mayor of Murray and chairman of the LTVA, said just before his death, "I'd like to live 20 years more to see the improvements and business acclamation that are bound to come with the Gilbertsville Dam," so has his prophecy been realized.

H. B. TAYLOR, The MAN

by EDWARD FREEMAN
PART VII

The first Baptist church, big as it was, could not begin to seat the crowd that gathered to pay its last respects to Boyce Taylor at his funeral.

The crowd sang songs Elder Taylor had loved best. Tears were mingled with the sacred hymns. Pastor George Ragland of the First Baptist church, Lexington, read the Scriptures from a copy of the Bible which Elder Taylor had lately used in his devotional reading and marked in his own way. He chose those passages Elder Taylor had marked in the Bible.

Elder W. E. Hunter, Somerset, Ky., a life-long friend of Elder Taylor, gave the funeral sermon. His subject was "God's Man." He read from Malachi 2:6 the words "The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips; he possessed peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity."

The text of his remarks follows: "This text presents the character and work of God's preacher, and gives in outline his task on earth. He is divinely called, commissioned, and sustained. When the Lord calls a man to preach, his call never runs out, it lasts as long as he lives. He can never get away from it."

The following are some of the characteristics of God's preacher: "1. The law of truth was in his mouth."

"He taught the truths of the law. His study was God's law. He made it his business to know all that God had commanded, and was faithful in his proclamation of the same. The Word of God was his text book."

"2. God's preacher is a saved man and knows it. Salvation to him is a present possession and not future. The world says salvation comes at the end of life, but God says it comes at the beginning of the Christian life. Knowledge gives both boldness and happiness, and makes a positive and fearless Christian. In the mind of Boyce Taylor there was no question concerning his present and eternal salvation, the matter was settled when he believed, therefore he was happy and fearless in his defense of the truth."

"3. God's preacher believes the Bible is God's word, the very mind and will of God. It is His only revelation to man of Himself and work. As he reads it, to him it is God speaking. Truly Boyce Taylor believed the Bible to be God's word. To him it was the book of God containing all instructions necessary for the spiritual wellbeing of man. He loved the Book as few men do, and was loyal to its teaching almost without flaw."

"4. God's preacher is a literalist in his interpretation of the Scriptures. He takes the word as God's revelation to man, and believes it means just what it says. He is willing to let it speak for itself. No spiritualizing in his make-up. He reads God's words and gets from them God's thoughts. Boyce Taylor was outstanding in his literal interpretation of the Bible, believing its teachings on all doctrines and truths."

"5. God's preacher is outstanding in faith, doctrine, missions, and service. He believes in the life of faith, to get and give. He stands for every doctrine of the Bible and glorifies in every opportunity to proclaim them. If the Lord teaches it, he teaches it. He is not ashamed to be called a doctrinal preacher. Surely these times of materialism in which we live call for men of faith and vision."

"6. God's preacher is a missionary in head and heart. Strip the Scriptures of missions and there is little left. Churches were organized to do mission work. Our Lord's program to His churches is missionary. Boyce Taylor was missionary in head, heart, faith, and practice. How few men can mean up to him in missionary faith and activities. His church was a hotbed of world missions and teachings. J. F. Love once said in my presence, 'The Murray church is the greatest foreign missionary church on earth.' May the missionary spirit of Brother Taylor stimulate the Baptist ministry of the South until they shall come as a body of God's men to really believe in missions."

"7. God's preacher is a praying man. He prays about everything. Nothing is too big or too small for him to talk to the Lord about. God's man is too busy praying to be a politician. He gets things by prayer. Boyce Taylor was outstanding in his prayer life. How intimate he was with the Lord. How the Lord delighted to hear him pray and give him answers. What a source of strength it was to this speaker to know Boyce Taylor prayed for him daily. Truly he was one of the Lord's great intercessors. How we shall miss him. How lonely we feel already as we remember his voice will not be heard among us any more."

"8. God's preacher is a practitioner as well as a proclaimer. He lives out what he preaches. Here Brother Taylor excelled all other men I have ever known. He believed God's Word, preached it, and carried it out in his life, his home and church. What an example he has left pastors and churches in practicing what you preach."

"9. God's preacher is a strong hater. He hates sin, hypocrisy, and pride. He has no love for the compromiser of truth, the betrayer of Christ and the brethren. His soul loathed shame in the Lord's people, and the trickster in the ministry. The Lord's voice is his woe: 'Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, who are like unto whitened sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.'"

"10. God's preacher is an ardent lover. He loves God, the Bible, and the truth. He loves the Lord's churches and is set for their defense. He is a friend to preachers and who to the Lord's work. Brother Taylor was a lover of preachers and especially young preachers. He has given away hundreds of dollars to them in money and books. His heart and home were always open to missionaries; how he did love them and gave them his best."

"11. He is one among the few men I have ever known who loved his enemies. I believe he fulfilled that scripture which says, 'Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you.' I do not claim perfection for him, he was far from being a perfect man, and no one knew it better than he."

"12. Brother Taylor had more to do in the molding and shaping my ministry than all other men put together. He took me when a young pastor and put me as one of the speakers on His Bible institute programs and thus trained me in doctrine, missions, and love for New Testament churches and all they stand for. The Lord only knows what my course of Bible thinking might have been, had I not come in touch with Boyce Taylor at the time I did. I am happy this afternoon to remember from this stand on, pray, while he was living, I told him what he had done for me. For 18 years he has been on the program of our Bible institute in Somerset, not having missed a session since it was started. How he has helped indoctrinate the Somerset church in missions, prayer, faith, doctrine, and all church truths. He has been a guest often in my home since I have had one, and a more congenial and welcomed guest I never had. Thank God for Boyce Taylor, his loyalty to the Bible, and his defense of the churches."

"13. Boyce Taylor excelled as an editor. No dissemination paper was read with keener delight and profit than News & Truths. It had a wide circulation not only in the states but in most of the countries of the world. Most every missionary of our Southern Boards received the paper. How News & Truths will be missed."

"14. He was author of several books and tracts, which will live and go on preaching to the end of the ages."

"15. As teacher and debater he had few superiors. He has done more to clarify Baptist faith and refute heresy than any other man in Kentucky if not in the South."

"16. Boyce Taylor was preeminently a preacher. When he spoke people had to listen to him. There was something about him that attracted, whether you agreed with him or not. He did more free preaching than any man in the South. He never considered the money side of the ministry, his one concern was preaching, the Word of God and defending the faith. How he delighted to preach the gospel."

"17. He was a great believer in collegiate work, having given away and sold through Christian workers hundreds of tracts and books. His books and tracts encircle the earth."

"18. In his fight for the truth he made the task of others lighter and easier. He feared neither friend nor foe when the truth was at stake. God gave him a great heart and brain which knew not the fear of man. He was absolutely fearless in his defense of the truth."

"19. 'Iniquity was not found in his lips.' Boyce Taylor was clean in heart, thought and word. God's preachers ought to be pure in words as well as in faith. He was neither vulgar nor boorish in his language. Clean thinking produces clean expressions. I never heard a vulgar word come from his lips; his language was always chaste and becoming a man of God. Lord, keep thy anointed men clean in their words. Truly it can be said of Brother Taylor, 'Iniquity was not found in his lips.'"

"20. 'The Bible order was the backbone of his life. He was a man of God. Lord, keep thy anointed men clean in their words. Truly it can be said of Brother Taylor, 'Iniquity was not found in his lips.'"

"21. 'I was surely shocked at Jennie's telegram. I was sure Boyce would get well and then my prophesies would come true. Except I hurt me about as much and may be more than anyone else; for I had never dreamed of his work being cut short. I always believed he would have a successor to step into his shoes. One may appear yet. Well he has laid his armor by his sword is sheathed, and his long fought battle is ended. He is now enjoying the fruits of his well-earned victory. His motto, 'I am set for the defense of the gospel,' was characteristic. He wore the whole armor from the beginning of his ministry to the time of his death, and it was nearly always so closely buckled on as to make a perfect shield; and his foes sooner or later found this out. His arm was strong to wield his sword; his was a 'two edged sword' and many were there that felt the sharpness of this weapon. I believe most of his loved him; he fought in the open and never hoisted the white flag, nor surrendered his position at any time in all of his bitter campaigns. The town of Murray will miss him for the best people of Murray loved him. They admired his firm stand for the right as he saw it, for his strong endeavor to hew to the line at every lick. They admired him for his pure, unadulterated Christian life and for his strictly moral living and for the good example he set for them to follow. You and I will miss him as much as any one. We will miss his paper; you will miss his Sunday School lesson, and we will never again attend his February Institute. We four will miss Mame's bounteous meals, with the sweet fellowship we enjoyed while packing of them. We will miss the quiet, though strong and old-fashioned conversation of his grand old mother. It seems like our business 'along this line is finished.' As I have often can only look at it as Jennie said in her letter: 'We don't have to understand.' I am sincerely glad she was able to get to you in time, as I have found her strength something stable to lean on in just such a time as this. You have been on my mind constantly for the past several weeks. The only resort I have had is prayer and I have not failed in that, and I am sure many others have done the same. As to Boyce's work, it has not been of such nature as will be burnt up as hay and stubble. It will be a monument to his memory, even though some of it should stop with his death. Such of it as the Lord wants perpetuated will find a leader to keep it going."

"I was surely shocked at Jennie's telegram. I was sure Boyce would get well and then my prophesies would come true. Except I hurt me about as much and may be more than anyone else; for I had never dreamed of his work being cut short. I always believed he would have a successor to step into his shoes. One may appear yet. Well he has laid his armor by his sword is sheathed, and his long fought battle is ended. He is now enjoying the fruits of his well-earned victory. His motto, 'I am set for the defense of the gospel,' was characteristic. He wore the whole armor from the beginning of his ministry to the time of his death, and it was nearly always so closely buckled on as to make a perfect shield; and his foes sooner or later found this out. His arm was strong to wield his sword; his was a 'two edged sword' and many were there that felt the sharpness of this weapon. I believe most of his loved him; he fought in the open and never hoisted the white flag, nor surrendered his position at any time in all of his bitter campaigns. The town of Murray will miss him for the best people of Murray loved him. They admired his firm stand for the right as he saw it, for his strong endeavor to hew to the line at every lick. They admired him for his pure, unadulterated Christian life and for his strictly moral living and for the good example he set for them to follow. You and I will miss him as much as any one. We will miss his paper; you will miss his Sunday School lesson, and we will never again attend his February Institute. We four will miss Mame's bounteous meals, with the sweet fellowship we enjoyed while packing of them. We will miss the quiet, though strong and old-fashioned conversation of his grand old mother. It seems like our business 'along this line is finished.' As I have often can only look at it as Jennie said in her letter: 'We don't have to understand.' I am sincerely glad she was able to get to you in time, as I have found her strength something stable to lean on in just such a time as this. You have been on my mind constantly for the past several weeks. The only resort I have had is prayer and I have not failed in that, and I am sure many others have done the same. As to Boyce's work, it has not been of such nature as will be burnt up as hay and stubble. It will be a monument to his memory, even though some of it should stop with his death. Such of it as the Lord wants perpetuated will find a leader to keep it going."
